there is a terrible truthfulness about photography. the ordinary academician gets hold of a pretty model, paints her as well as he can, calls her juliet, and puts a nice verse from shakespeare underneath, and the picture is admired beyond measure. the photographer finds the same pretty girl, he dresses her up and photographs her, and calls her juliet, but somehow it is no good—it is still miss wilkins, the model. it is too true to be juliet.

george bernard shaw

"how long has it been since i've been somewhere, somewhere that's more than just something to see?"

. . . nothing is real to us but hunger.

kakuzo okakura

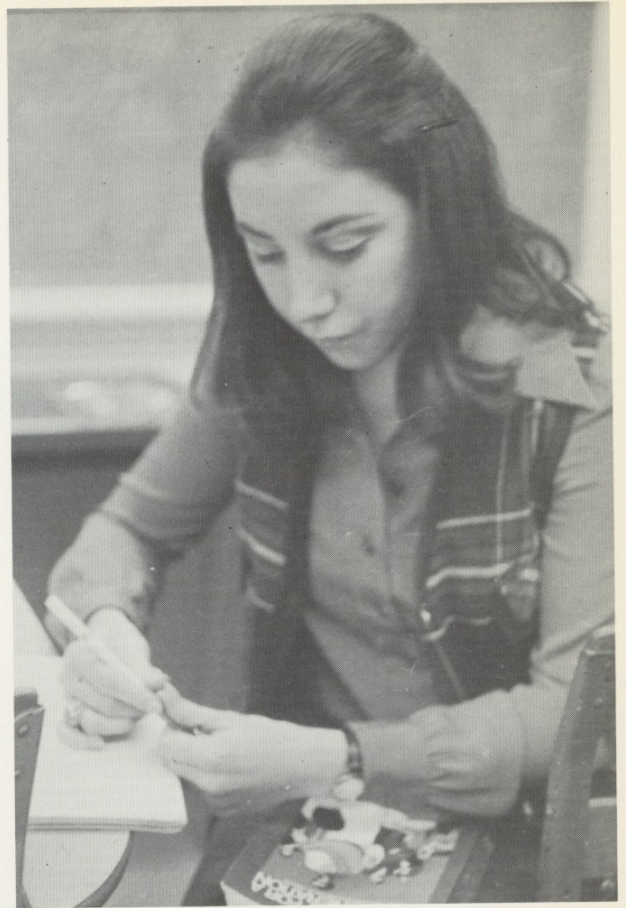

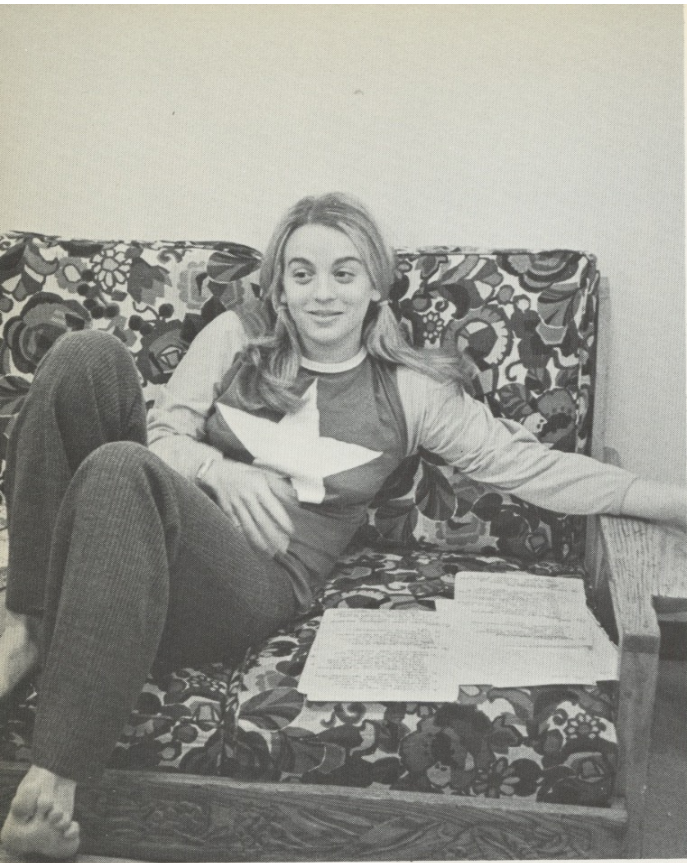

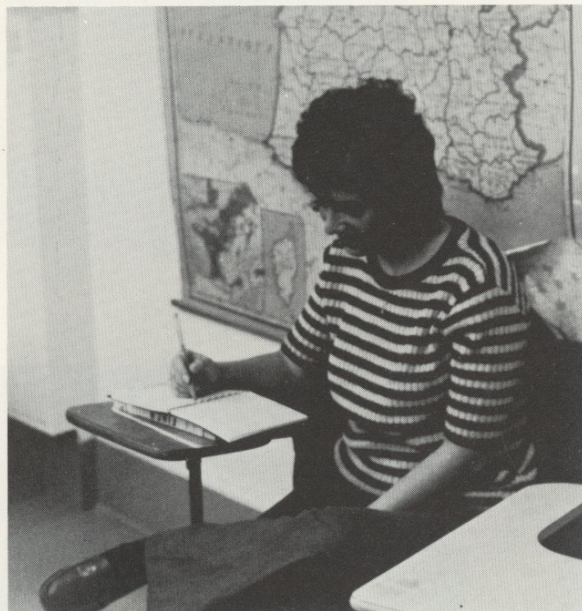

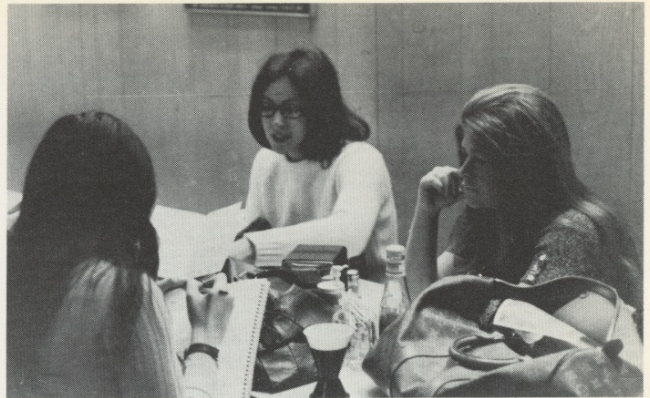

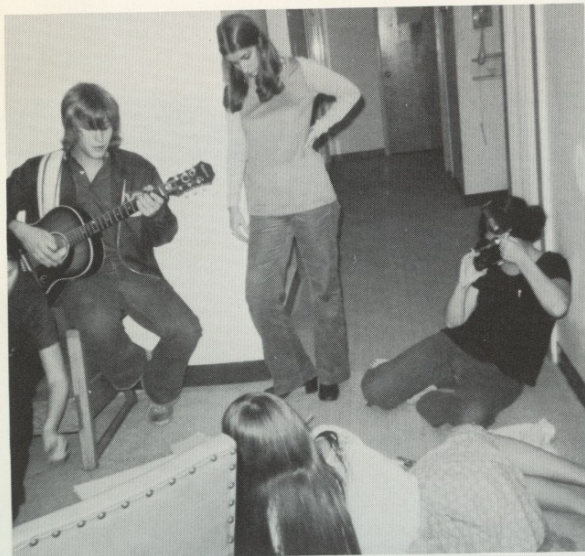

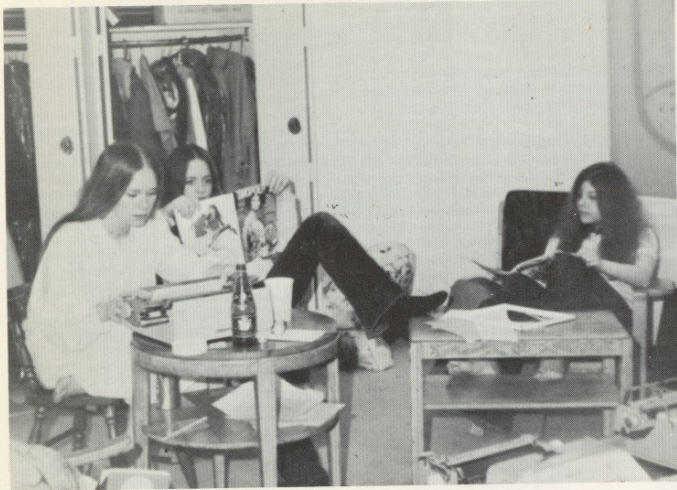

sleep is the rest we need to keep from getting fed up with ourselves.

we can learn what we did not know. we are not only good at destroying the old world, we are also good at building the new.

“if you wish to know the character of the prince,
look at his ministers;
if you wish to understand the man,
look at his friends;
if you wish to know the school,
observe its faculty and administration.”

art produces ugly things which frequently become beautiful with time.
fashion, on the other hand, produces beautiful things which always become ugly with time.

dancing in all its forms cannot be excluded from the curriculum of all noble education: dancing with the feet, with ideas, with words, and need I add that one must also be able to dance with the pen?
