SKYLINE 1967

Author of two books and currently working on a third about Dante and Islam, Doctor Clough is an outstanding, warm, effervescent woman, who prizes her scholastic life and its rewards highly. She is active in the Italian Embassy, and collaborates with the Italian Consulate and the Italian Institute of Culture. She has brought to Finch College a series of neo-realistic films, which are shown every other Tuesday evening for the students to enjoy. Last year, she produced a program for assembly on modern Italian poetry set to electronic music.

Doctor Clough is an excellent teacher. She makes the study of Italian both interesting and fun. Because of her enthusiasm and leadership, the student's interest for the language does not stop in the classroom; it is carried to the outside world of Italian movies, art, and literature. By going with her students to museums to see new artists on the up and coming Italian scene, to movies, to operas, and by having guest speakers such as Luigi Barzini, author of The Italians, come to Finch, Doctor Clough makes the study of Italian more meaningful; and thus, adds to a greater appreciation by the student for the language.

She is not only interested in the Finch girls as students, but as individuals. It is this sincerity and devotion that makes us at Finch so fortunate to have on the faculty such a dynamic, versatile, sincere woman as Doctor Rosa Clough. Thus, Finch College dedicates the 1967 edition of the Skyline to her.
