It is with deep gratitude that we dedicate this book to Margaret Maxwell, Ph.D., a member of the history department. By her great zeal she has taught many of us that history is to be enjoyed with the mind as well as with the memory. She has been an inspiration to us all and we hope she will long continue to be a guiding light to Finch.

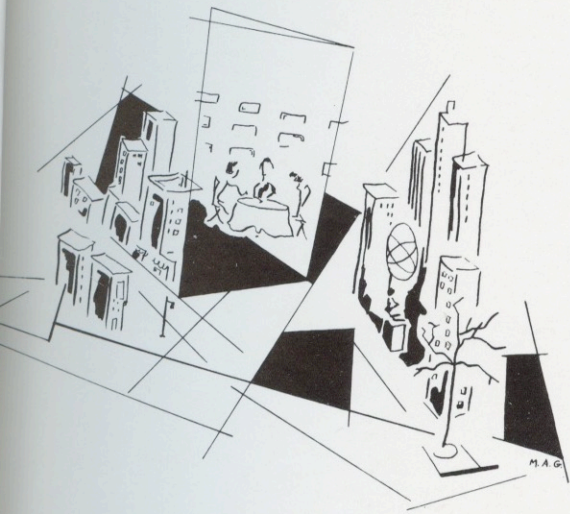

Whatever else New York might be named, one of the most appropriate labels is capital of the world. Look all around you. See the past, the present and the future of the world captured right here, surrounding Finch College, making history, the languages, literature and art come alive.

We look at this city and what we see makes what we learn at Finch a reality. We see the present of the world in the peoples from all nations, arriving at the piers, bringing with them the customs and cultures of their homelands, making New York a blend of the world's civilizations. We walk through Chinatown or Yorkville and see how people still retain and reflect the customs they brought with them. When we eat at a Greek restaurant, or enjoy a Japanese movie, or read the foreign newspapers so readily obtainable here, the facts we study are made vital, tangible, current.

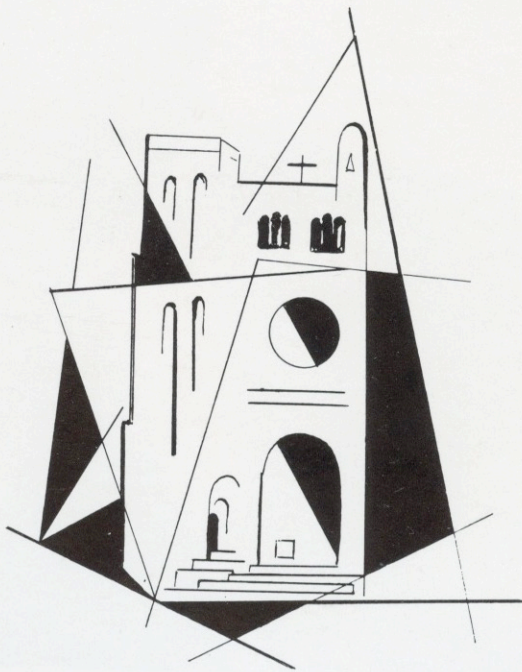

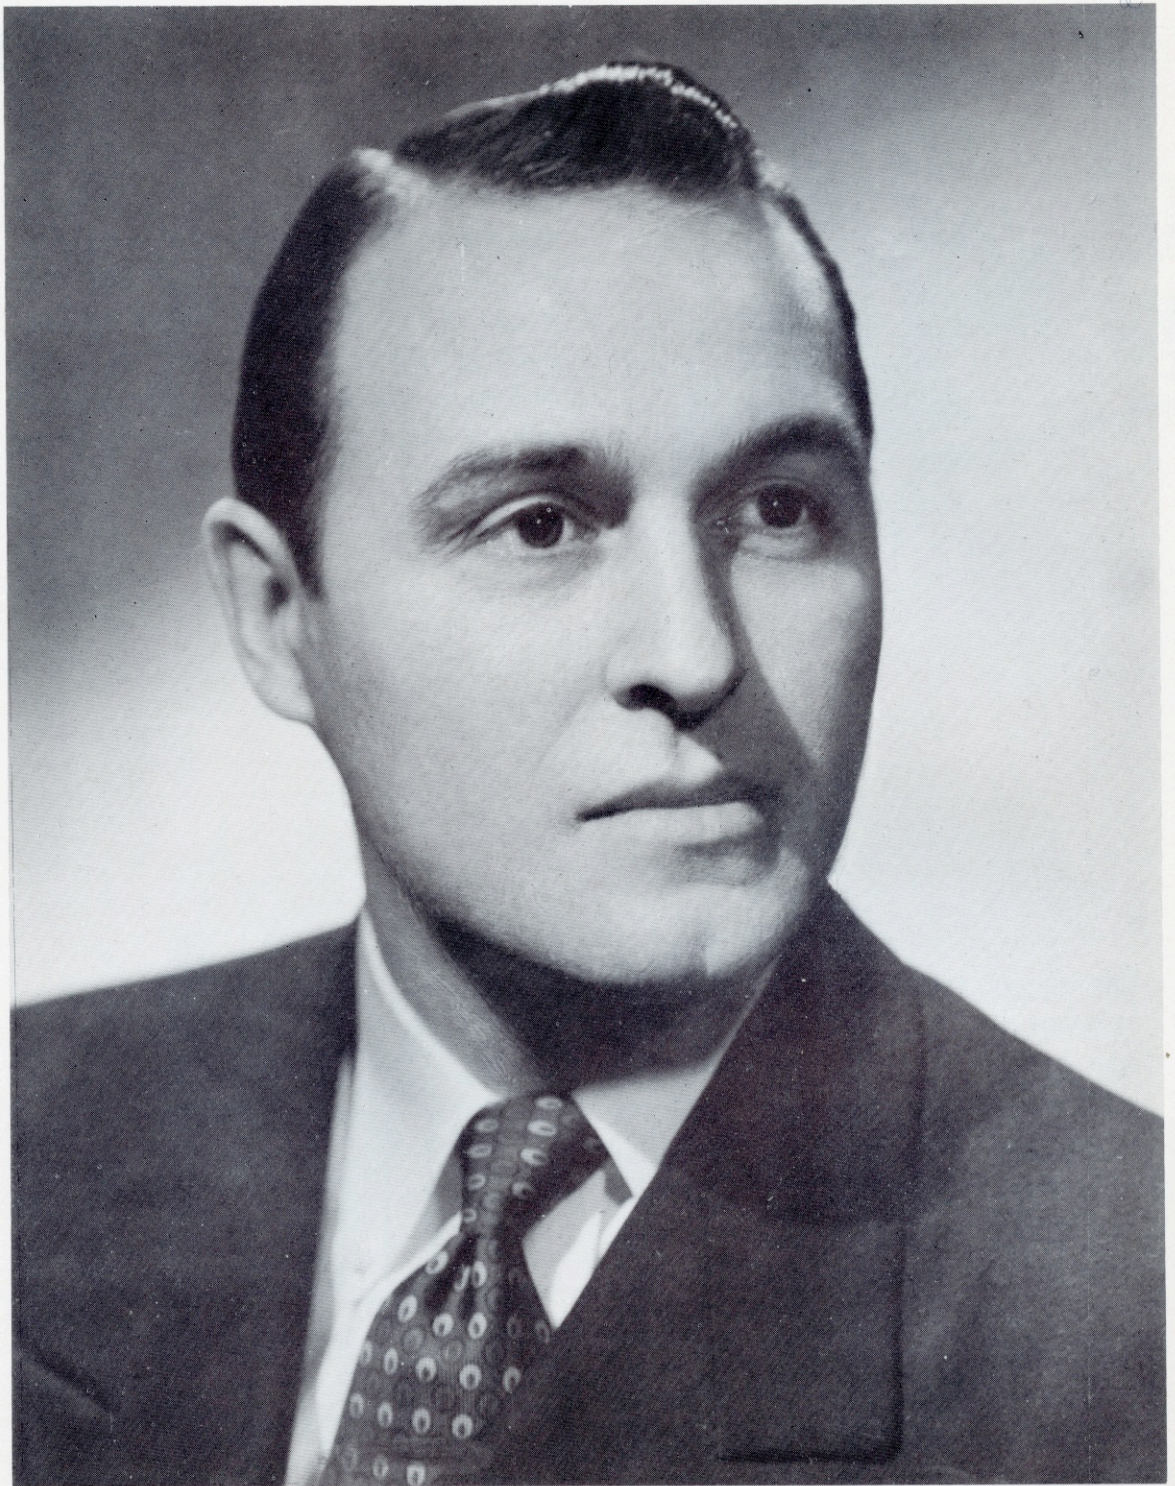

the hopes of the world are represented here. That is why studying at Finch is so exciting and exhilarating. Everything that is old, new and changing is felt in Manhattan, and the world studied in books becomes a living, palpable world in a city so many faceted, so open and inviting to anyone who wishes to know and understand.

But we can also visit the multitude of museums and libraries that bear our heritage from the past. Looking at works of art from India, hearing the greatest operas of Europe, visiting places of worship for all faiths, we see that what we learn really has been created. Thus the past and the present of the world about us, the facts that we have learned at Finch, become living ideas and tangible objects. And with the United Nations centered in New York, we are made aware of the growth into the future.

All aspects of the history, the cultures,

ALMA MATER

Alma Mater, font of wisdom, thou hast been our stay
In hours of joy, in hours of sorrow, as we have sought our way.
In our years of pliant youth, thou gave us power to see
The paths of justice, freedom, truth—these things we owe to thee.

May the light of thine own teaching long with us remain,
And e'er inspire us, upward reaching, for our spirits' gain;
May it, through the years before us, purge our hearts of pride,
And INEAMUS MELIORA be evermore our guide.

We have a wonderful LIBRARY here at Finch. In order to keep it running as well as possible, Mr. Shirley has a Student and a Faculty Committee working with him to discuss and advise on policy and problems, so that the students may enjoy the library to fullest advantage.

Nobody can deny that New York night life is exciting. This year the wonderful dances we enjoyed as a result of the hard work of the SOCIAL COMMITTEE, under the leadership of Joan Thomas, and the unforgettable Finch Ball, directed by the FINCH BALL COMMITTEE, whose chairman is Diana Virrill, have enhanced and brightened our weekends in the city. We all had a wonderful time at the fall and Christmas cocktail dances, held at the Ambassador and the Waldorf-Astoria, for the benefit of the nursery school and library fund. Beautiful and memorable was the Finch Ball,

Beauties and the band held this year at the Waldorf-Astoria. Lester Lanin provided the music and a midnight supper was served. A special feature of the 1957 Ball was the fur-piece won by Lillie Hodges. The Ball was a big success and the committee worked hard to make a record year of proceeds for the Jessica Cosgrave College Scholarship Fund. Joan, Diana and their committees provided a festive year for us.

There are many clubs at Finch that come under the jurisdiction of the Inter-Club Council and that profit immensely from being in New York City.

Olive Levi, President of the FRENCH CLUB, is taking full advantage of Finch's location. The members have visited several French restaurants, churches, and theaters, thereby getting an idea of the French way of life and enjoying themselves at the same time. Further information about the country has been obtained by having French speakers at the Club meetings, and the girls planned to project their Gallic interests by presenting a play. On the more social side of their activities, a dance with the French Club at Columbia was arranged.

Closely akin to the French Club is the newly formed ITALIAN CLUB, which has proved to be very successful under the guidance of Dr. Clough. Its purpose is to reveal to the American student the beauty of Italian culture and to increase knowledge of Italy's governmental and social aspects. The students and the faculty have been invited by the president, Myri Kazazian, to attend the popular meetings where such speakers as our own Dr. Tomasini, and Dr. Prezzolini, a literary critic and editor, have proved very interesting. The Italian Club gave a play at Finch and Columbia, which was quite successful.

Butterfield 8

A little bit of Broadway is inherent in the DRAMA CLUB. Under the leadership of Nancy Harrell and the direction of Mr. Post, the club gave a number of very professional and enjoyable productions.

The varied talents of the members were displayed in the variety show, Butterfield 8, as well as in other productions. The convenience of Finch's location has given the members the perfect opportunity to Every large city has a great number of charitable organizations that need volunteer workers. Some of New York's charities were aided by very willing and useful workers, the members of the COMMUNITY SERVICE CLUB at Finch. The President, Elaine Turner, and the Faculty Adviser, Mrs. Downs brough, guided the members in distributing baskets of food to the needy, in giving a party for the children at Belle-

Tuberculosis and Health Association were other services unselfishly offered by the Club to organizations that appreciated their help.

Throughout the year the PUBLICITY CLUB kept the college posted on current extra-curricular activities. Notices were sent to the students and eye-catching posters were painted, giving necessary information about college events. Under the leadership of Lucy Alexander, this committee aroused and increased student interest in activities.

The INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS CLUB called on many interesting persons living in New York, who were available as speakers. Ellen Davidman, the President of the Club, and Dr. Maxwell, Faculty Adviser, invited such speakers as a representative from Cyprus, one from the British Information Service, and a Hungarian representative from Radio Free Europe to speak at meetings to which all students were invited. As a result of these and many similar activities, Finch Students were kept well aware of world affairs in the most interesting manner possible, by hearing people intimately connected with these events give their opinions and answer questions.

All in all, this year has been very successful and enjoyable. New York's variety of offerings has been well used through extra-curricular activities, and our year at Finch has been made more exciting as a result.
